THE BEEF INDUSTRY

Aggressive Beef Industry Retail Programs Move Beef This Summer

Summertime is heating up all over America, and so are beef promotions in some of the country's largest retail chains. The checkoff-funded programs are positioning beef as easy and contemporary for consumers, while encouraging retailers to feature beef at the meat case.

"Especially this summer, with supply at its peak, retail programs will be some of the most aggressive ever," said Ralph Cellon, Jr., a beef producer from Alachua, FL, and chairman of the Beef Industry Council retail subcommittee.

Efforts include recipe centers positioned at the meat case, distribution of the Book of Values recipes and coupons to more than 6,000 qualified retail stores and a summer featuring program that provides incentives to retailers and wholesalers.

Recipe Centers

Summer grilling recipe centers have been shipped to approximately 13,000 grocery stores across the nation. Each center, which contains 350 perforated recipe sheets featuring five quick and easy beef recipes and several tips for grilling, is a self-contained shipping unit that converts to a point-of-purchase display at meat cases. An estimated 4.5 million recipe sheets will be disseminated.

Results from a similar promotion last year show that 23 percent of consumers who picked up a recipe sheet said that it encouraged them to buy more beef on that shopping trip, while 19 percent of retailers said they thought it helped sell more beef. In addition to the national effort, several state beef councils will extend the program in-state. Participating chains include Safeway, Kroger, Albertsons, Publix and H.E. Butt Grocery Co.

Book of Values

The more than 6,000 retail stores that qualified for Book of Values during last year's winter featuring program will receive the displays in time to disseminate delicious beef recipes for the 4th of July weekend. In addition to helping to move beef, the Book of Values will start the ball rolling for the summer featuring program.

Summer Featuring Program

More than 22,000 retail stores will be invited to participate in the summer featuring program, which provides incentives to retailers and wholesalers to increase incremental beef sales during an 11-week period, beginning July 16.

A target tonnage is determined for each chain on an individual basis. Chains receive 1 cent for every pound of beef moved over their target (up to a set maximum), which is then reinvested, primarily in retailer-specific radio advertising. Sixty-second spots will run in each chain's market during critical supply times between December and February with thirty seconds dedicated to the "Beef. It's What's For Dinner®" theme communicating the easy versatility of beef and thirty seconds used by the retailer to boost consumer traffic.

The Beef Industry Council, a division of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, is the consumer marketing organization for the beef industry, and conducts programs in promotion, research and education.

May 2, 1995

The May FBA Directors meeting usually ends with a tour of the Lasater Ranch & a steak dinner there. Pretty much a standard event each year...not this time however, it rained the month of May everyday and our country was pretty well rain soaked. You really had to be there to appreciate the following story but I'll try to tell you what happened.

Everyone piled into pick ups and the suburban to tour and view the cattle. The vehicles got stuck in the mud and finally one had to be abandoned but not without a great effort by our trusty folks, John Bazel probably was the worst looking man in the bunch. They were splattered with mud from head to toe and you couldn't "hardly see a white man among them". Wanda Shockey held up very well considering they had her brand new pick up buried to the axles. I found the following cartoon on a calender at Tom's and it seemed appropriate for the occasion along with the photos of our illustrious board.

FBA MEMBERS

TO ALL FBA MEMBERS:

This letter will bring you up to date on important and far-reaching developments for our association and for the Beefmaster breed.

Following unofficial contacts between FBA and BBU during early 1995, in April President Steve Flake appointed a committee to initiate official discussions with our BBU counterparts, regarding the idea of combining our two associations. The three breeders joining Steve Flake on the merger committee are: Gayle Evans, Laurie Lasater and Dale Lasater.

The three men representing BBU are Charles Landrum of Mississippi, President, Don Biles, DVM, of Oklahoma, Vice President, and Wendell Schronk, Executive Vice President.

If negotiations reach a successful conclusion and the proposal is approved by both boards and by the membership of both associations, we will create a new association: Beefmaster Breeders United. That will give the breed a new name, to mark a new beginning, and will keep the acronym BBU which goes back to the name Tom Lasater's wife, Mary, gave to the original association in 1961.

The joint merger committee met at the Lasater ranch on May 17, 18 and those present felt that all relevant issues were covered and that general agreement was reached on most of them. At the regularly scheduled board meeting in Denver May 19th, the FBA board unanimously approved the merger committee's work to date and authorized the committee to continue the negotiations.

Once several remaining issues are resolved, we would anticipate approval by the BBU board within the next 60 days, and the signing of a letter agreement between the two associations. Subsequently, the merger proposal will be voted by the two associations' members.

Several of the key points involved in the discussions are:

* The merged association will begin with FBA representation on the board and with both past presidents (BBU & FBA) serving ex officio, as voting members of the board.

* Mandatory dam identification will not be required. Multiple sire herds will continue to be accepted.

* All current members of FBA or BBU will be eligible to become charter members of Beefmaster Breeders United.

* FBA breeding certificates will be exchanged at no cost and without inspection of cattle for certificates in the new organization.

* Existing BBU programs, such as classification and weights and measures will continue to be voluntary. (As a matter of interest some 30% of BBU cattle are currently classified).

While Beefmasters have moved from minor to major breed status, the "house divided" image which the existence of FBA and BBU has given to potential customers and to the livestock industry at large has been detrimental to the effective promotion and dissemination of the Beefmaster breed.

- 1) Breeders who wish to pursue a breeding program based on the six essentials with a minimum of paperwork and
- 2) Breeders who wish to generate more data through adjusted and comparative figures, pedigrees and EPDs.

At a time of intense competition in the purebred industry, it is incumbent on us to get our house in order, allow for differences of approach to management and selection practices, and join all our personal, genetic, and financial resources together to secure the position in the international beef industry that the proven viability of the Beefmaster breed merits. This cannot be done without combining the strengths of both associations and all Beefmasters breeders.

We invite your phone call to discuss this important matter with any member of the board or the merger committee. We are enthusiastic about the potential opportunities created by this prospective merger, and we hope that you will join us in seeing this effort through to a successful conclusion.

Yours sincerely,

CONDOLENCES TO THE SANTOS FAMILY

FBA Sends Condolences to Russ Santos Family

As a young man, Russ rode saddle broncs. But his lifelong passion in the arena was roping. Russ, Don and Frank headed down the rodeo road a few years before Frank was old enough to drive. The brothers' most prized horse over the years was Jake, a bay horse their father bought from neighbor Vern Castro, who won the 1942 world team roping championship with his brother, Vic, and was the lone champ of the world in 1955. The Santos brothers' perennial "great debate" was over who would ride Jake, who could do it all. Frank roped calves on Jake and Don hazed bulldogging steers for Frank and roped on Jake. Behind-the-trailer negotiations often occurred when Russ and Frank would dicker over who would ride Jake when they roped together. Russ retired Jake to the green pastures of the 3-S Ranch, where he lived out a long, happy life.

Russ had many arena accomplishments over the years. In 1966, he and Frank won the team roping championship at the Chowchilla Stampede. Russ won Chowchilla again in 1985, heading for Marion Schwoerer. He and Marion also won the team roping title at the 1979 Oakdale Saddle Club (PRCA) Rodeo.

Russ had a number of rodeo accomplishments outside the arena, as well. He worked year-round the last three decades on the Oakdale Saddle Club Rodeo, where he served horseback as the arena director during every performance and slack. He worked sunup to sundown to make the rodeo a huge annual success in the "Cowboy Capital of the World".

Russ was a past president of the Oakdale Saddle Club and the California Team Roping Association. He was a dedicated 30-year wheelhorse at the famous Oakdale 10-Steer Team Roping and the Oakdale Rodeo. He was instrumental in adding equal money in the team roping event at the Oakdale Rodeo, which made Oakdale a stop on every professional team roper's rodeo calendar.

Russ, a PRCA Gold Card member, organized the first-ever PRCA Gold Card Team Roping Event, held several years ago at the Oakdale Rodeo. It was such a hit that many more PRCA rodeos have since followed suit and added the popular event. Russ was recognized as the events founding father by his cowboy friends in a presentation last November at the Gold Card Team Roping Finals in Reno, Nevada.

Russ placed on the last rodeo steer he ran. He heeled for Slick Roche at the April 29-30 Clovis Rodeo, and split second and third place in the second round with an 8.1 second run.

Russ married the love of his life, Joane Parkel, on August 4, 1951. He was stationed in Japan during the Korean War, from April 1951 until he got out of the Army in 1953. Working side by side on the ranch, Russ and Joane raised another generation of cowboys, their sons, Gordy and Brady, on the 3-S. Russ and Joane enjoyed many wonderful trips in the last few years. They took in the Houston (Texas) Livestock Show and Rodeo; the Pendleton (Ore.) Roundup; the Southwestern Exposition and Livestock Show and Rodeo in Fort Worth, Texas; the National Finals Steer Roping and Timed-Event Championship of the World at the Lazy E Arena in Guthrie, Oklahoma.

Russ will be missed by everyone who was lucky enough to know him. He made thousands of friends in his lifetime.

He is survived by a family that will always remember his laugh, his bright, kind eyes and happy smile and all the years of good times we shared. We'll think of Russ always. Don't know what we'll do when it's time to cut Nana's apricot pie at Christmas. Russ was always first in line for that. The Santos family includes Russ's wife, Joane; his son, Brady, his wife, Linda, and their children, Garrett and Colton Santos, and Angela, Catherine and David Ferreira; his mother, Lucy, better known as Nana; his brother, Don, and his children, Obie and Kristen; his brother, Frank, and his children, Blaine, his wife, Katy, and their daughter, Kayla; Kendra and her husband, R.D. Karney, and their sons, Lane and Taylor; and Wade and his wife, Terri; Joane's sister and her husband, Arlene and Bill Davis.

We love you, Russ. We'll never forget you

BEEF "ON" FORAGE BEEFMASTER BULL PERFORMANCE TEST FIELD DAY

The Central Texas Beefmaster Breeders bull test consignors and sponsors hosted their ninth annual field day on Saturday, June 3rd at the bull test facility on the Marek Ranch near Lexington, Texas.

Over 190 members and guests attended the program which included guest speakers, sponsor displays, BBQ lunch, door prizes and inspection of 145, 16 month old Beefmaster Bulls.

Results of the 126 day winter test program were given along with actual weaning weights, adjusted 205 day weights, gain weights, 452 day yearling weights, weight per day of age, ratios and muscle and ribeye index.

Featured speaker Dr. Jim Sanders Professor of Animal Science, Texas A&M University discussed how Beefmaster Cattle are meeting the demands of a constantly changing cattle industry. He maintained that the Beefmaster is a general purpose, maternal type animal and urged everyone to keep a balance within traits (moderation).

Al croix, President of the Texas forage and grassland council discussed some of their programs and activities, one being the Forage Bull Development Program.

Dr. Neil Pratt, Extension Forage Specialist, Texas A&M University discussed Maximizing Fertilizer Efficiency in our pastures.

Billy Gillum, Lee Co. Extension Agent talked about Weed Control in pastures by using chemical and non-chemical means.

John Regmund, Beef Nutritionist, Moorman minerals discussed how minerals pay for themselves.

Foundation Beefmasters Association President Steve Flake, Snowflake, Arizona discussed the recent talks with BBU concerning a possible merger of the two associations.

Following a delicious BBQ lunch, sponsors gave their presentation and drawings were held for various door prizes.

Following the program the group inspected the 145 Forage tested bulls which will sell October 21, 1995 in Brenham, Texas.

For more information concerning the Forage Test or Sale, Contact: Gray Frenzel (817) 983-2901.

Watch For Feed-Grain Bargains

How will rain-and flood-delayed planting affect corn and feed-grain prices this fall? "In some weather-affected years, uncertainty results in higher prices initially, after which the crop comes in fine and prices follow a seasonal decline into the fall," says Bret Fox Cattle-Fax analyst. "That could still happen this year, but on the downside, a crop failure would very likely give us #3 corn in the Texas Panhandle this fall." U.S. corn prices could average $2.78 per bushel, up from May's $2.40 per-bushel mark, estimates the University of Missouri, Columbia (UMC).

Soybean prices may jump from $5.63 per bushel to $6.31. Both total corn supply and corn use this fall will be 9.3 billion bushels, projects the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Soybean production, under a "worst-case" scenario, will be less than 2 billion bushels, UMC reports. Univeristy analysts advise producers to watch for feed-grain bargains this summer.

EU Hormone Ban Under Fire

Washington leaders continue efforts to reopen Western European markets to U.S. beef. This week, Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman met with European Union (EU)

Agriculture Commissioner Franz Fischler, to ask for help ending the EU ban on beef produced with growth promotants. Sens. Max Baucus (D-Mont.) and Kit Bond (R-Mo), co-chairmen of the Senate Beef Caucus, called for an end to the ban in a May 19 letter to U.S. Trade Representative Mickey Kantor: "The international scientific community has repeatedly stated the growth promotants used by the beef industry are safe." The hormone ban has prevented U.S. beef sales of at least $100 million annually since 1989, estimate NCA analysts.

Non-Conformance Costs Near $1 Billion

Differences between actual production and ideal standards cost the beef industry almost $988 million in the first quarter of 1995, according to a checkoff-funded, non-conformance index prepared by Cattle-Fax for NCA. Cost of quality grade, yield grade and carcass weight non-conformance costs averaged $152 per head. Not meeting the 1/4-inch or less boxed-beef standard cost almost $137 per head. Today's quality-grade mix cost $13 per head and discounts for cattle outside desired weight range averaged about $2 per head. Cattle-Fax uses non-conformance areas identified in the 1991 National Beef Quality Audit to compute costs.
